Note: Members asked Farm Bureau to negotiate a new discount program for office supplies. This proved a little challenging because many office supply chains offer a handful of "teaser" items that have little to no profit margin. They do this so that they appear to be less expensive overall when in fact the overall shopping experience at some of these stores is usually more expensive.

We ran a test on this new Office Depot/Farm Bureau program and it turned out very favorable. Basically, we took over 100 commonly purchased items and priced them through Office Depot's regular online site, through many of their competitors' online sites, and then through Farm Bureau's new Office Depot discount program site.

The bottom line is that this new program will almost always be the lowest price, but on occasion there may be these teaser items from Office Depot's regular site, or their competitor's sites, that might match or beat a price listed in this discount program. However, this will be the exception to the norm and we just wanted everyone to be aware of that fact. Enjoy the savings!
